

How to Install OEM style headrest monitors

Here is a guide of how i installed the screens into my rear headrests. I'll go through the guide in order, picking out points as i go, feel free to pop me any questions but this is just a guide, your screens etc might vary to mine so take this into account before you start.

Like most things i do normally have a practice first, i made a frame up for the screen box first, i also tested both screens linking to a DVD player - i was actually very impressed with the quality - in all honesty i expected them to be rubbish for the price but they have good colour depth, bright and linked to a upscaling DVD they had a really sharp image.
